'MA' FERGUSON IS FAVORED TO WIN

Texas Woman, Candidate For Governor, Expected To Defeat Opponent

FORT WORTH, Texas, Nov. 1.—With one of the bitterest campaigns in Texas political history practically at an end, Mrs. Miriam "Ma" Ferguson, Democratic nominee for governor, was a favorite in the betting today to defeat her Republican opponent, Dr. George C. Butte.

Butte's campaign managers would not even venture an opinion today on what counties would prove favorable to Dr. Butte. Ferguson headquarters were shown to be Klan strongholds in the primaries.

W. E. Talbot, campaign manager for Butte, predicted today that if 500,000 votes were cast, Butte would get 325,000 or more.

On the other hand, James E. Ferguson, husband of the Democratic nominee, concedes Dr. Butte not more than 200,000.

Mrs. Ferguson, in addition to the vast Democratic phalanx that disregards his impeachment record in the primaries, will poll 40,000 anti-Klan Republican votes, he said.

RIGOR OF PRISON TELLING ON LOEB

Chicago Youth Placed Under Constant Surveillance Of Prison Doctor

CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—Richard Loeb, the once brilliant college student who beat out the life of little Bobby Franks, "for a thrill," is breaking under the rigors of prison routine at Joliet, where he is serving life for murder and 99 years for kidnaping. On the other hand, Nathan F. Leopold, Jr., his partner in the crime, and under like sentence, is thriving. These facts became known when it was learned that Loeb had been placed under constant surveillance of a prison physician.

Confinement has told heavily on the spirit of the youth who five months ago was a care-free, dancing, frolicking youth, and the death of his father a few days ago brought him almost to the breaking point, a guard revealed. Loeb, since the death of his father, sits on the edge of his bunk, his head resting in his hands, gazing at the floor for hours. And he stands listlessly before the lathe to which he was assigned to turn out chair rungs, uninterested, dejected.

PARTIES OUT TO CARRY NEW YORK

Political Leaders Believe Election Will Hinge On Empire State

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
For International News Service.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—The empire state's great block of forty-five votes in the electoral college is the hinge up which Tuesday's election turns.

It explains why the managers of both Calvin Coolidge and John W. Davis have chosen to make this populous state the final battle ground.

In this campaign, complicated in the west as it is by the La Follette candidacy, the rival managers have tacitly agreed that "as goes New York, so goes the nation." The pencils, flying busily around every headquarters today, bear it out.

Could Be Done

It is mathematically possible, of course, for either the Democrats or the Republicans to win without New York's forty-five votes. But it is extremely improbable. Wilson won in 1916 without carrying New York, but by the narrowest possible squeak. His victory was the exception that proves the rule. To do it he had to sweep the west like a prairie fire—something that, with La Follette running this year, neither party can hope to do.

For publicity purposes, of course, both Republican and Democratic managers are claiming everything in sight. The Democrats claim as high as 325 electoral votes, while the Republicans estimate runs as high as 391. A majority is 266. But actually none of them expects anything like those first figures.

ALL TRAFFIC TO L. A. IS CHANGED

Glendale Boulevard Is Made One Way Route; Relieve Auto Congestion

All Glendale automobile traffic to Los Angeles is being routed via San Fernando road, by orders of Chief John D. Fraser of the Glendale police department, leaving Glendale boulevard as a one-way street for traffic coming from Los Angeles.

This decision was reached this morning, after Chief Fraser had gone over with Captain Plummer of the Lincoln Heights station the problem of diverting traffic so as to relieve the serious congestion occasioned by the closing of the Los Feliz road bridge over the Los Angeles river.

Last night thirty men from the Lincoln Heights station toiled from 7 o'clock until nearly dawn, untangling the snarl of cars massed in the section of the Los Feliz and Glendale boulevard bridges. It is believed that the decision to route all Glendale traffic to Los Angeles via San Fernando road will relieve much of the congestion.

HOODED ORDER AND FOES BATTLE AT NILES, OHIO; GOVERNOR SENDS TROOPS

Both Sides Cease Hostilities After Killings Occur and Assume Policy of 'Watchful Waiting' For Soldiers' Arrival

NILES, Ohio, Nov. 1.—Three men have been killed in Klan and anti-Klan outbreaks in Niles this afternoon, Sheriff John E. Thomas told newspapermen at 3 o'clock. He said that he did not know whether they were members of the hooded order or its foes. The trouble started over a proposed parade by Klansmen.

Following the outbreak at Main and Federal streets, this afternoon, both parties assumed a policy of "watchful waiting" pending the arrival of troops from Youngstown and Warren.

An earlier report that two men had been killed when fighting broke out at Main and Federal streets between Klan and anti-Klan faction, proved to be unfounded, police said. Five men, all members of the anti-Klan faction, were wounded and four of them may die, but none were killed, police reported, after first stating that two had been killed. The injured men were spirited away to a hospital.

Following the declaration of martial law by Governor Donahey, orders were issued to the national guardsmen mobilized at Warren, five miles distant to come here at once, and they were loaded in automobiles and at 2:30 o'clock were reported en route here. Whether the parade will be called off is as yet unknown.

Headed by Colonel L. F. Connolly, the 145th infantry headquarters company arrived in Niles at 3:05 p. m. They were warmly cheered by members of the Knights of the Flaming Circle as they marched through the streets and took up headquarters at city hall.

Immediately upon arrival, Colonel Connolly took over command of the situation. An immediate announcement was expected as to whether or not the Klan would be permitted to hold its parade, the climax of the tri-state rally, which has attracted 25,000 Klansmen from many states.

Ohio Governor Orders Company of Troops To Leave For Scene of Anti-Klan Fighting

COLUMBUS, Nov. 1.—Governor Donahey announced today he had issued a proclamation declaring that "qualified" martial law exists at Niles.

Connolly, with instructions to dispose all gatherings. This order is interpreted as barring the Ku Klux Klan from holding their parade.

Governor Donahey wired United States District Attorney Benson W. Hough at Springfield this afternoon to go to Niles in his capacity as commanding officer of the Ohio National guard and stop off here for a conference at the state house with the governor and Adjutant-General Henderson.

DAMAGED

ANOTHER MASON LODGE PROPOSED

A. M. Dewey Calls Meeting Sunday Afternoon to Discuss Plans

A visit to Glendale eighteen months ago gave to this city an enthusiastic permanent resident, and the longer he remains here the more enthusiastic he becomes, and the greater booster for all things in the way of public improvements to make Glendale a real place to live and educate a family, according to friends of A. M. Dewey, who came here from Cedar Rapids, Iowa, and decided after the first few months that he would stop shoveling coal and snow, and, as he puts it, shovel sunshine the rest of his life.

Mr. Dewey was a staunch supporter of the sewer bond issue last winter, and is now just as enthusiastic in favor of the civic center. He is a Mason, and belongs to all of the Yorkrite bodies, and is a frequent visitor to all of these which meet in the Masonic temple on South Brand boulevard.

When the Ancient Egyptian Order of Sciots was organized in Glendale it was discovered that there were more than 1000 Masons in this neighborhood who still retained their memberships in their home lodges in every state in the union, and more than 400 of these became members of the latest Masonic family. This furnished an idea to this Iowa Mason, and he has proposed the formation of another Masonic lodge in Glendale to be made up exclusively of these sojourning Masons. The Masonic Bulletin recently made mention of the proposition, and many of these sojourners have signified their desire to assist Mr. Dewey in working out his program.

Meeting Called

Since the recent meeting of the Grand Lodge in Los Angeles, and the proposition to build a temple in this city, this interest has been intensified, and a meeting is called of all sojourning Masons to assemble at the temple on South Brand boulevard next Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock to take the initial steps to form such a lodge. Speaking of this meeting Mr. Dewey said:

"It is not our intention to interfere in any way with the local order of things Masonic, but rather to assist all of these by bringing together this 1000 men in a new lodge to take a place in the fraternal brotherhood Masonic in this city. I believe this is quite possible, and that we can bring into the new temple a lodge of at least 600 members, who will not only add to the local membership, but also become a powerful factor in financing the enterprise. Many of these men have signified their intention to do this.

'Daylight Lodge'

"Many of these sojourners are past masters of their home lodges, with a keen knowledge of ancient craft Masonry, and these will be a substantial help in Masonic matters in the future in Glendale. This lodge may become what is called a 'daylight lodge,' meeting in the afternoon, as many of the proposed members are men well advanced in years, and late hours do not appeal to them. But they do love to put their feet under the table together, and it is quite likely that at least twice each month the afternoon meeting will be followed by a supper in the banquet hall of the Temple building. We are hoping for a large attendance at this initial meeting Sunday afternoon next."

Mr. Dewey has engaged in business in Glendale at 204 East Broadway, where those wishing to deposit their demits from home lodges can leave them with him if they so desire.

PRODIGAL SONS AND DAUGHTERS

Editor's Note — This is the fifth of a series of articles written for The Glendale Evening News by Carlos S. Hardy, judge of the superior court of Los Angeles county. The articles will show that "crime never pays." Judge Hardy's position and his study of the cases before him qualifies him to present the articles in an interesting manner. The sixth is "Drunkenness' Part In Crime."

5—IDLENESS BASIS OF MUCH CRIME

By CARLOS S. HARDY
Judge of the Superior Court, Los Angeles County

Many parents make criminals of their children not only by lack of proper training, but by rearing them in idleness and keeping them in idleness after they grow up.

There is an old and true saying that Satan finds work for idle hands to do. There is nothing more harmful to the youth than for him to be waited on every minute that he is at home, and permitted to get the idea that he is either too good to work, or that he can get through life without working.

Fortunately, ambition sends most girls and boys out into the world's activities imbued with the desire and purpose to make a success, and the big fortunes and striking successes of Americans have been made by men and women of this type. The average boy of today is keen for the active life of business. But there are the exceptions, and many of them can lay their failure to the fact that their parents permitted them to live in idleness.

Romance Enters Case

A striking illustration is a young man whom I had to deal with recently. We will call him Black, but that is not his name. He was about 24 years of age, was stylishly garbed, and showing all the mannerisms of the dandy. The charge was issuing checks on banks where he had no funds, and passing them upon a leading hotel. The case was relieved by a certain amount of romance, as you will see. He had been his mother's yet, and had never been required to support himself. His hands were soft and white. He had tried the movies, but, because he knew more, much more, than the directors that he met, he was a failure. He was of that young man type that always impresses everyone he meets with his superiority. You have seen them, and whenever you started to say something, they would cut in and take charge of the conversation. Well, that was the trouble between Mr. Black and the movie directors, and accounts for his failure in the only serious attempt at work that he ever made.

Hunts for Heiress

Finally, Mr. Black worked out the idea, which is not quite original, that the thing for him to do was to marry an heiress. The more he considered the subject, the more fascinating it became. Why not? He was handsome, and a lady killer, and the best dancer in the community. He did not lose any time in putting his idea to work. He listed all the girls in the neighborhood, and there were no heiresses in the list, that is, none that were in sole charge of considerable wealth. He quickly passed them up.

He had read in books that uncumbered heiresses live in fashionable hotels, and so Mr. Black quickly selected one of the city's most fashionable hotels to receive his patronage. He was able to procure from his mother only about $100, for that was all she could spare, but he had no doubt but that it would be sufficient. He took up his abode at the hotel, and, be it said to his credit, he got an economical room and patronized the cafes very sparingly. He lounged on the lounges and haunted the dances. Before the first week was ended, he stalked his game, a very charming young lady, who was seen in all the places he visited. She was attended by her proper mother, and they also were staying at the hotel. He contrived an introduction, and it was not twenty-four hours thereafter until he was duly convinced that the fair young lady was the heiress he was looking for. According to her own story, her father was a rich Boston manufacturer, she and her mother were having trouble to spend his wealth. She did not tell him all this in words, but that was the way he understood the case. Of course, he was equal to the occasion. He did not exactly say that he was wealthy, but he gave the fair lady to clearly understand that he had lived a life of leisure, which was true, and his soft hands and engaging manners supported whatever he said. The two were charming dancers, and no time was lost. They danced and they danced, and when too tired to dance, they lounged in the parlors and dreamed.

Before a week had elapsed, she knew that he was the rich prince charming whom she had long hoped for, and he was sure that she was the rich and beautiful heiress of his dreams. Before two weeks had gone, they were married, and, at the end of their first honeymoon week, his board bill fell due. His cash capital was exhausted, and he did not want to break the news of his condition to his bride, and she had said nothing about money, nor shown any disposition to hand over her estate to his care.

Bank Returns Checks

So he drew a check on a bank where he once had a few dollars. The bank had given him a goodly supply of blank checks. Why not use them to tide over the emergency, for surely his wife would hand over a bundle of stocks and bonds soon. But she did not, and the bank returned his check, and soon he was arrested, for he had not only paid his bill with a fictitious check, but had got two or three cashed. He went to jail because not one of his folks could make bail, and then the truth came out. He had faked to his bride, and she to him. Neither had a dollar. Both were frauds, each having fooled the other. The case ends with the husband breaking rocks and building roads for the state under a two-year sentence. His soft palms are hard and horny, and this young swell is doing his first honest work in all his life. Perhaps he will realize before his sentence expires that truth and honesty are not only the best policies, but the only safe ones.

COMMENT by GIL A. COWAN

What a wonderful conception of Glendale was presented in the Annual Development Number of The Glendale Evening News issued yesterday. In picture, story and business announcements the progress and prosperity of this thriving community were told.

It is the bounden duty of boosters to mail copies of this greatest edition of The Glendale Evening News to their relatives and friends in the east. Already the flood tide of mailing has commenced and the limited edition will fall far short of the demand, no doubt.

Particularly impressive was the photographic representation of Glendale from airplane, while the other photography, engraving and printing is a credit to the artisans who aided in the production of the paper.

In addition to going to church tomorrow it would be wise for every voter to read the arguments sent out by the state on the various propositions to be voted upon at Tuesday's election.

Also, mark your sample ballot and then go to the polls and vote. You are a stockholder in these United States whose judgment determines the course of the greatest nation on earth.

Confidence in the election of Calvin Coolidge as president was evidenced in the upturn of the stock markets yesterday.

The Literary Digest poll of 2,400,000 voters gives him a decisive plurality. Practically all unbiased political observers have predicted his election.

With Halloween out of the way thoughts now turn to Thanksgiving day and Christmas among the followers of the social order of the day.

Actually, life is one round of pleasure, if you make it so.

Otherwise it is a pretty commonplace affair.

May Remove American Colleges From Turkey

SOFIA, Nov. 1.—Because of stringent regulations imposed upon them by the Turkish Government, trustees of Robert College and the American College for Girls in Constantinople are considering the advisability of moving these two American colleges to Sofia. Leading Bulgarians have expressed approval of the plan, and the Sofia Government has promised its patronage and co-operation.

It has been suggested that the two missionary schools in Bulgaria should be merged with the Constantinople colleges, thus building up in Sofia the best and largest American university outside the United States.

West Virginia Farmer Little Out of Touch

MARTIN'S FERRY, Ohio, Nov. 1.—A corps of surveyors, recently working near Dallas, W. Va., participated in a political discussion. One surveyor mentioned President Collidge. The owner of the land which the men were surveying wanted to know why the surveyor said "President Coolidge" instead of "Presid nt Harding." He didn't know Warren G. Harding was dead. His excuse was that he didn't "take a newspaper." He admitted, however, that he could read. Incidentally, he has earned sufficient money to buy additional land, which the men were surveying.

Five Injured In Gas Explosion At Glendale Home

STRUCTURE SHATTERED, ANOTHER HOUSE MOVED

Crew of Workmen Burned When Residence at 525-D West Riverdale Drive Is Wrecked; Force of Blast Shakes Neighbors

A violent gas explosion at 3:50 o'clock yesterday afternoon completely wrecked bungalow No. 525-D in the court owned by M. W. Lee at 525-29 West Riverdale Drive, injuring five workmen, four of them employes of the Southern California Gas Co., and the fifth a painter. All were taken to the Glendale hospital, where four are still patients.

Z. Hammond of 412 Hawthorne street, painter, sustained serious burns about the arms and chest, and is reported this morning to be in an alarming condition. George Morrison of 327 East Maple street, is said to be badly burned on the face, and may be permanently disfigured. Joe Hill of 4132 Parkdale avenue received body burns. W. B. Mann of 139 South Pacific avenue, was badly burned about the arms and legs. These men are still patients at the Glendale hospital. Albert Binder of 405 West Colorado boulevard, foreman of the gas company crew, was able to be taken to his home after having his burns dressed.

Garage House Moved

The wrecked house presents a scene of havoc difficult to describe, portions being shattered to kindling wood and everything inside in a condition of utter disarray. Sections of the structure were wrenched away by the force of the explosion and literally driven into the walls of adjoining bungalows in the court. The building directly to the rear, a two-story garage house, was moved four inches off its foundation by the blast.

Sidney C. Singer, division manager of the Southern California Gas Co., with offices at 124 North Maryland avenue, is conducting an investigation to determine what caused the explosion, the second to wreck a Glendale house within the last few days. According to residents of the neighborhood, employes of the company were engaged in setting a meter in the new house and an acetylene torch, which one of the crew is said to have been using, ignited the gas from the main.

Loss Is $3000

M. W. Lee, owner of the court, was inspecting the work of the crew a few seconds before the explosion occurred, and had just walked around the corner when the blast came. A window frame from the exploding bungalow was hurled from its fastening and struck him on the leg, but without inflicting serious injury.

A fire alarm was at once sent in and apparatus from the Glendale fire department promptly arrived. Chief A. H. Lankford placed the damage to the property at $3000, practically the total value of the demolished bungalow.

After investigation, Mr. Singer reports that the explosion must have been caused either by a spark from one of the tools used in connecting the meter or from the lighted cigarette, cigar or pipe of some smoker. As far as he has been able to learn, none of the workers on the house was smoking at the time of the blast.

Mr. Singer denies the rumor that the explosion was caused by his men using an acetylene torch. The gas company does not own such a torch, he says.

Amid the gaiety and frolic of the Hallo-Kiwanis party last night at the Harvard High school grounds rang a tragic note. ATTENTION IS CALLED TO $50 FEE

Real Estate Brokers Loaning Money Must Pay Amount Under New Law

California Real Estate association is in receipt of information that the United States internal revenue department has just started the collection from real estate brokers of the $50 fee required by the government from all persons loaning money. The first case to come to the attention of the association was that of R. H. Cattle, real estate broker of Chino.

C. Fulton Jones, of the United States internal revenue department, with headquarters at San Bernardino, recently entered Mr. Cattle's office and asked the latter if he had a license to loan money.

Mr. Cattle replied in the affirmative, believing that his regular real estate license covered this phase of the business.

In the course of conversation it developed money lending is not covered in the real estate license and that a federal law went into effect on July 1, requiring all persons who loan money to pay a license fee of $50 a year.

The government agent not only required Cattle to pay the $50 license, but also penalized him $17.50 for not having secured his license sooner.

Democrats In Eleventh Hour Effort for Votes

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—Brushing aside and disregarding all the straw votes, polls and other pre-election pointers which so strongly indicated the election next Tuesday of Calvin Coolidge, the Democrats are making a tremendous eleventh hour effort for the electoral vote of New York and New Jersey.

Give them the 59 electoral votes that lie on either side of the Hudson river here, say the Democratic leaders directing this last minute concentration, and they are willing to take their chances in the electoral college. That explains the seeming abandonment of the west by the Democrats in the last week of this unusual, complex campaign.

YOUNGSTERS IN COSTUME MARCH TO SCHOOL FIELD

Fireworks, Bonfire, Prizes, Plenty of Free Eats, Taking Movies and Lots of Fun Feature Annual Celebration

By P. M. CONNELLY
Of The Evening News Staff.

Way back when grandfather was a boy and advantages of boyhood were not what they are nowadays, grandfather and the other lads of the neighborhood set forth from the little farm houses with hearts and souls bubbling in boyish mischief and restlessness, proceeded to celebrate the "feast of feasts"—Halloween. Wagon wheels, front porch furniture, flower pots, dignified and cranky old farmers' nerves—all suffered at the hands of the Halloween celebrators. And so it has been since time immemorable.

But grandfather and his fellow culprits had not in many ways the advantages of the modern boy and girl, not even in the celebration of Halloween. Last night 4000 youngsters of Glendale and surrounding communities participated in a Halloween party and celegration the like of which grandfather never dreamed. Four thousand urchins costumed and masked and carrying glowing torches of red light, joined in honoring spook night in a manner unique in the annals.

There was just one big distinguishing point between the huge party of last night and the parties of grandfather's day. The kids enjoyed themselves just as much and a whole lot more, probably, but, with the monster parade, blaring bands, blinding Kleig lights and the clicking movie cameras, the eats, prizes, gorgeous fireworks, blazing bonfire, and everything that went to make up the Hallo-Kiwanis party, they forgot about the time-honored custom which called for the wrecking of furniture and windows and the annoyance of the less enthusiastic.

The Hallo-Kiwanis festival exceeded by far even the expectations of the most optimistic. Most of the children were in the line of march, while thousands of their parents and friends lined the sidewalks, cheering as the costumed ranks proceeded down Brand boulevard from California street to the Harvard High school field. Chief of Police John D. Fraser, in an official car, led the parade. A cordon of motorcycle officers, followed by the first section of the Elks band, came next. Behind these were the massed ranks of the smaller children.

Sections 1, 2 and 3 were crowded to capacity by the kindergartners, and girls and boys of the primary grades. Then followed the other sections up to No. 10, consisting of the children from the fifth grade to the high school seniors. In the center of the line was placed the second section of the band.

As the parade swung by the corner of Wilson avenue and Brand, a dozen glaring Kleig lights and two huge flood lights were turned on the ranks and moving picture machines of Pathe and Animated Weekly clicked off hundreds of feet of film, to be shown all over the country and at the next convention of Kiwanis International.

Prizes Are Awarded

At the Harvard field, where more than 3000 grown-ups awaited the arrival of the children, packing every available space in the grandstands and upon the field, each youngster was given packages containing candy and cookies and other good things to eat, and as they passed to the next concession in line were served with hot Comalt. Then came the awarding of more than 120 prizes for the best costumes and floats for the parade.

A little before 9 o'clock all lights on the field were extinguished and the fire-works display commenced. Opening this event was a magnificent spectacle especially arranged for the event. The touching of one fuse set into a glow the words "Kiwanis Club

THE BUSINESS INTERESTS AND WALL STREET

We hear the charge that both the Republican and Democratic candidates for the presidency are "tools of Wall street." Enemies of Coolidge make the claim, in answer to the argument that the present administration must be continued if prosperity is to endure, that "Big Business" is behind Coolidge, and that if we do not elect Wall street's candidate the money power will bring on hard times to prove that they are running the country.

Henry Ford, in announcing that he will support Coolidge, brings out the point that there is a difference between the business interests of the country and the money power. Mr. Ford said:

"I am for Coolidge because he is opposed to the money power.

"Personally, I have no doubt that Coolidge will be decisively elected. He will be elected because he has refused to be the tool of any class. He has not served any special interest. Wall street has found that he cannot be handled by Wall street. I mean that section of the International Trust that operates in the United States in Wall street, in Lombard street in London and in the Place de la Bourse in Paris. That is the money power that made the war, poisoned the peace, exploited Germany and threw England into unemployment. That money power does not want Calvin Coolidge.

"Men have come to me and asked how I could support Calvin Coolidge, a Republican, when I supported Wilson, a Democrat. I am not supporting him because he is a Republican. I did not support Wilson because he was a Democrat. I am for Coolidge now because he thinks more of the people than of the party. I think he is an able man, deserving the support of all forward-looking men.

"I appreciate the fact that Coolidge's opponents have attempted to make it appear that his support has largely a corporation flavor. Coolidge is supported by American business men, but I believe he is for American business, as against the money power.

"Not for a long time has our government been so free of the influence of special interests as during Coolidge's brief administration. He stands for the new as against the old, honesty as against old compromise, public service as against party log-rolling.

"New business systems confront each other in this country—production as against profits, service as against spoils. I think Coolidge is on the side of production, service and prosperity. That's why I am for Coolidge."

"GIVE THE DEVIL HIS DUE"

The appeal to fairness, "give the devil his due," is often heard, but not always heeded. Young Theodore Roosevelt is finding his name and lineage a handicap rather than a help in his political aspirations. Whatever he may do that is good, his enemies will give the credit to his illustrious father. Whenever he falls short of the elder Roosevelt's greatness, there will be those to blame him.

To carry out the idea that Roosevelt is using his father's name and fame as stepping stones to achievement in politics, one cartoonist pictures him in the uniform his father wore in the Spanish-American war. Evidently the cartoonist has forgotten that there has been a world war since the Spanish war and that young Roosevelt wore a uniform of his own. This uniform, by the way, showed two service stripes and two wound stripes. It bore the Distinguished Service cross of the United States and the Croix de Guerre of France.

Roosevelt's name, for which he is not to blame, scarcely was responsible for getting him into the first officers' training camp as a private. No one will charge that it gained him a commission from the Wilson administration. It did not put him into the Cantigny trenches or lead him out of them at the head of his men in attack, nor hold him there when gassed and blinded. His name neither prevented nor caused his being wounded at Soissons.

Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., has made an enviable record for a man of his age. Doubtless some of the qualities he has inherited from his father have helped him. It may be that he is not qualified to be governor of New York. It may be that he will never be as great a man as his father and namesake. But, he is deserving of fair treatment and credit for what he has achieved by his own efforts. The sporting spirit of America ought to be willing to grant him that much, even though opposing him politically.

CULTIVATE MENTAL DISMISSAL

A business executive who has the reputation of getting a great deal of work done in the time he spends in his office, attributes this faculty largely to what he calls the power of mental dismissal. Poise, he thinks, is essential to a full working day without strain.

When big things are at stake it is natural for a business man or anyone else to carry the matter at issue in the mind so that it comes to the fore when other matters are under consideration and other decisions are to be made, and unless one makes an effort to control his thoughts this kind of mental laxity will grow.

The habit of worrying is one of the worst enemies of concentration and mental efficiency, and this power of dismissal is a good thing for everyone to cultivate. An eminent psychologist has said that it is almost impossible to overwork the brain, but that worry wears out the tissues rapidly. Many people who are neat and tidy in appearance have disorderly minds.

VOTE CONSCIENTIOUSLY

In their zeal for a record breaking vote November 4, many people and many newspapers are urging the people, "It doesn't matter how you vote, but vote." It does matter a great deal how you vote. An ignorant, careless, indifferent vote counts as much as an intelligent, conscientious vote. Every one has a right to his own opinion as well as the privilege of voting as he sees fit, but no one has the right to vote carelessly.

You may vote wrong, but if you have honestly tried to vote right, you need not blame yourself afterward. If you vote carelessly and thoughtlessly, or if you do not vote at all, and it later develops that the best interests of the country are not being served, then you are directly responsible. A careless electorate cannot expect a good government.

An open purse and an open mouth are soon empty.

He speaks well who hears much.

THE PRINCE HAS NOTHING ON US!

On Going to School

By DR. FRANK CRANE

Recently several million children started to school.

This imposing event in our national history took place without any advertising or blowing of horns. It is the most significant thing that has happened of recent date.

It has more influence upon the future than anything that is taking place just now in politics. These children now going to school will be running affairs in business and in statesmanship in the future years. What that business and statesmanship will be will depend upon the knowledge and character possessed by these children.

The country is not yet awakened to the importance of the school teacher. We are accustomed to saying that the public school is the most vital thing in our possession and to brag a good deal about Americans all having the opportunity to attend. But the question has never yet been taken seriously enough.

There are thousands of people throughout the south who do not go to school at all and thousands in our great cities who attend part time. Our school facilities are inadequate and the whole business has not received enough public attention to secure a better quality of teachers.

Education is the principal business of a nation. A minister of education should have his seat in the cabinet and we should recognize the training of the young as our most important business.

We are here but for a little while and the net result of our influence is how we affect the coming generation.

That generation needs to go to school. There is no greater crime that can be committed against a boy or a girl than to deprive such a one of proper training, for the time is rapidly coming when the untrained man will be crowded off the earth. There is less and less room for a man who has only his hands to work with. And there is a greater demand every year for schools of some kind.

The public school is the laboratory of the future. Sending a boy to school is much better in the way of national defense than sending him to the army later on. He becomes an intelligent citizen and the more intelligent citizens a country has the better it is enabled to defend itself.

We need not only more schools but better schools and better teachers. We need to realize that one of the most inviting professions for a man or woman is the profession of teaching. And that there is room in it for all of the ability that anyone may possess.

Today's Poem

A SONG OF EARLY AUTUMN

When late in summer the streams run yellow,
Burst the bridges and spread into bays;
When berries are black and peaches are mellow,
And hills are hidden by rainy haze;

When the goldenrod is golden still,
But the heart of the sunflower is darker and sadder;
When the corn is in stacks on the slope of the hill,
And slides o'er the path the striped adder;

When butterflies flutter from clover to thicket,
Or wave their wings on the drooping leaf;
When the breeze comes shrill with the call of the cricket,
Grasshopper's rasp, and the rustle of sheaf;

When high in the field the fern-leaves wrinkle,
And brown is the grass where the mowers have mown;
When low in the meadows the cow-bells tinkle,
And small brooks crinkle o'er stock and stone;

When heavy and hollow the robin's whistle,
And shadows are deep in the heat of noon;
When the air is white with the down o' the thistle,
And the sky is red with the harvest moon;

O, then be chary, young Robert and Mary,
No time let slip, not a moment wait!
If the fiddle would play it must stop its tuning;
And they who would wed must be done with their mooning;
So let the churn rattle, see well to the cattle,
And pile the wood by the barn-yard gate!

PRICES UP IN SPAIN

Prices in Spain have arisen so rapidly that the government has authorized a further increase in the price of bread and establishing surveillance over stocks of flour and wheat in order to prevent speculation.

Making Presidents

By H. Irving King

IN 1920

The presidential election of 1920 saw one of those remarkable "turnovers" which have, from time to time, characterized American politics and swept the Republican party back into power by an enormous majority. The Republican convention, meeting in Chicago in June, nominated for president Senator Warren G. Harding of Ohio, and for vice-president Governor Calvin Coolidge of Massachusetts. Coolidge was nominated on the first ballot; Harding on the tenth. Harding's chief rival for the nomination was General Leonard Wood, who in the first ballot had 287 votes to Harding's 65. The Democrats, meeting in convention in San Francisco in the same month, nominated for president Governor James M. Cox of Ohio on the forty-fourth ballot. Assistant Secretary of the Navy Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York was nominated for vice-president by acclamation. William G. McAdoo, then secretary of the treasury, was a strong rival of Governor Cox for the nomination for president. Other party nominations were as follows: Socialist-Labor, for president, William W. Cox of Missouri; vice-president, August Gillhaus of New York. Socialists, for president, Eugene V. Debs of Indiana; vice-president, Seymour Stedman of Illinois; the Farmer-Labor party appeared on the scene and nominated Parley P. Christensen of Utah for president, and Max S. Hayes of Ohio for vice-president. A bolt from the Farmer-Labor convention resulted in the holding of a single tax convention, which nominated for president Robert C. Macauley of Pennsylvania and for vice-president Richard C. Barnum of Ohio. The nominee of the Prohibitionist party for president was the Rev. Aaron Watkins of Ohio. At the time the Socialists nominated Debs, he was serving a ten-year term in the federal prison at Atlanta for violation of the espionage act, so called. This year the Socialists held a convention, but had the convention's nominees approved by a referendum. The convention declared the adherence of the Socialist party of America to the Third Internationale, then dominated by Trotsky and Lenine; but rejected an intensely radical resolution advocating the employment of force. The election resulted as follows: Popular vote—Harding, 16,152,200; Cox, 9,147,353; Watkins, 189,408; Debs, 919799; Christensen, 265,411; W. W. Cox (Socialist-Labor), 31,175; Macauley, 5,837. Of the 531 electoral votes Harding had 404 and Cox (Democrat), 127. President Harding died at San Francisco August 2, 1923, and Coolidge became president. Harding was the sixth president to die in office. Two of his predecessors had died a natural death and three had been assassinated. The burdens of the presidential office killed President William H. Harrison soon after he took office, undoubtedly shortened the life of President Taylor and the death of President Harding is generally attributed to the same source.

GLENDALE, LOS ANGELES COUNTY, CALIFORNIA, SATURDAY, NOV. 1, 1924

REALTY LAW REPORT IS FINISHED

F. H. Bloodgood Makes Study of Enforcement And Qualification

Freeman H. Bloodgood, first real estate commissioner of California and chairman of the legislative committee of the California Real Estate association has submitted to President Everett A. White of the state realty organization the findings of his committee on matters of law enforcement and qualification examinations for brokers. The data was gathered by the committee which later met with Edwin T. Keiser, state real estate commissioner. In his report to the president Mr. Bloodgood says in part:

"We are assured by our state commissioner that ample funds for the department will be available; that a supreme court decision has declared that all the fees paid in belong to this department and may be expended for administration purposes subject to the audit of the board of control which, by the way, is similar to all other funds for all other commissions and departments in this regard. Having funds available we will have our real estate directories published on time and sufficient deputies in the field to give force and efficiency to the Real Estate Act."

Protection for "Realtor"

In discussing the use of the word "Realtor" by those not entitled to its use, Mr. Bloodgood states, "We find on investigation that the word 'Realtor' is protected in all states of the Union by the National association; that all that is necessary to bring a violator to time with respect to the unwarranted use of this word is to report the case to the National Real Estate association, and it will promptly attend to the matter.

"We are further assured by conference with our state commissioner that a qualification examination for new broker license applicants will be inaugurated in due season."

White to Take Oath As Head of World's Largest Realty Body

President Everett A. White, of the California Real Estate association, now in Columbus, Ohio, at a meeting of the board of directors of the National Association of Real Estate boards, where the question of more than one realty board to cities having a population in excess of 500,000 is being discussed, will return to Santa Ana on November 5. Three days later he will take the oath of office as president of the largest state real estate organization in the world.

The new constitution, adopted at the recent convention of the California Real Estate association provides an oath of office for the president, and Mr. White will be the first officer of the state association to be inaugurated with ceremonies befitting the office.

BOARD ENDORSES PROPOSED BONDS

Commerce Chamber Favors Eliminating Crossings at Rail Intersections

Board of directors of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce this morning endorsed the proposed county bond issue of $5,000,000 for elimination of hazardous railroad and highway grade crossings. The issue will appear on the ballot Tuesday. In endorsing passage of the bonds, President W. E. Hewitt of the chamber called attention to the fact that 738 persons lost their lives in railroad grade crossing accidents last year. He pointed to Europe, from where he recently returned, where a system similar to the one proposed in Los Angeles county is in vogue and fatal crossing accidents seldom happen.

President Hewitt predicted that if organized effort to minimize the death toll at grade crossings is not made, the state will take drastic measures which might inconvenience travelers.

WOODMERE BATHS IN MILLEA HOME

Modern Equipment Installed By Hoffman & Pixley, Glendale Concern

Extra large Woodmere bathtubs, with two special showers, were installed in the T. V. Millea home, 501 Cumberland road, by the plumbing firm of Hoffman & Pixley, 108 South Glendale avenue. A large Suburban automatic storage water heater and other fixtures were installed by Hoffman & Pixley, who have been doing practically all plumbing work for L. Cline, contractor of the Millea home, for the past two years.

Hoffman & Pixley, composed of J. G. Pixley and H. R. Gould, have been in Glendale about four years and are now recognized throughout this vicinity for service, quality and skilled workmanship. Some of the larger schools and apartments in the city have had plumbing installed by this firm.

The Millea home will be open to the public tomorrow for inspection.

JELLISON IS SOLE OWNER OF AGENCY

W. E. Healy Not Connected With Gardner Staff Is Announcement

E. V. Jellison is sole owner, president and general manager of the Jellison Motor Co., 1004 South Brand boulevard, distributor in this territory for Gardner cars, contrary to the statement published in The Glendale Evening News in the Development number yesterday, and the auto dealers' directory published July 17 and July 24.

During Mr. Jellison's absence in the east W. E. Healy, then a member of the firm, told a representative of The Glendale Evening News that he was president and general manager of the company and had been connected with the automobile business ten years

"W. E. Healy is not and never was president and general manager of the Jellison Motor Co.," Mr Jellison said today. "His first experience in the automobile business was when I took him in as a partner about a year ago. When I returned from my eastern trip I bought out his interests, and he has not been connected with the company for more than two months."

Mr. Jellison opened the Gardner agency in April, 1921. For three years prior to that time he was connected with the Keaton Tire Co. of Los Angeles as sales representative.

Realtors Put Okay On Voting Measures State Body Endorses

General endorsement of the stand of the California Real Estate association on measures to be voted upon at the election has been received from prominent realtors and civic organizations throughout the state.

The amendment giving increased compensation to members of the state legislature, known as proposition No. 2 on the ballot, and taxation of foreign securities by the state, known as No. 9 on the ballot, were both endorsed by the California Real Estate association.

The water and power amendment, known as No. 16 on the ballot, was as strongly opposed by the state association as was the endorsement of the other measures and the stand taken has been approved generally by members of the organization.

SYCAMORE GLEN BUILDING STARTS

Subdivider Luring Preparing To Erect 50 Homes In This Section

A building program, including the erection of fifty new homes in Sycamore Glen, has been started by R. A. Luring, subdivider. Contracts have been let to Don H. Berger and Co., Fred M. Hack and M. H. Hannas, contractors, for building the first units.

"We are prepared to finance 100 per cent building loans for lot buyers in this property," said Mr. Luring. "We are making all preparations for work commencing at once. We have established an architectural service whereby distinctive home plans are available to prospective builders, without cost to them. Concentrated development of this section, I am sure, will increase materially the value of every lot between now and the first of the year.

Ten Minutes Away

"The recent opening of the seventy-foot paved Sycamore Canyon boulevard gives a new strategic importance to this development. This alone has created a brisk demand for building lots."

Sycamore Glen is located ten minutes from downtown Glendale, on Sycamore Canyon drive, at the intersection of Sierra, just east of Verdugo road.

Costs of new homes under the present construction program will range from $6000 to $10,000 each.

MONTROSE NOTES

MONTROSE, Nov. 1.—Plans were made at the board of directors' meeting of the Montrose Chamber of Commerce last night for a get-together dinner for members and friends during the coming month. The dinner will be in the nature of a booster affair. A. Kaune and Leigh Quakenbush will explain the plans for a general publicity campaign, as secretary and assistant secretary of the chamber.

A. E. Sullivan reporting as chairman of the road committee stated that W. F. Fowler and Frank Turner had worked with him on petitions to have Honolulu avenue re-surfaced from Ocean View to Los Angeles avenue, but the county road department at this time did not think it would do more than put it into usable condition within the next three weeks on account of the poor condition of the road bed. From the reply of the county officials it was understood that property owners in this district are going to stand the expense of taking care of this county road. It was explained that the county would stand 20 per cent of the expense of putting in curbings, property owners carrying the balance.

On the matter of the paving of the west side of Montrose avenue from Waltonia drive into the heart of the town the committee was requested to submit an estimate of the probable cost of the work after which the county would decide if it would shoulder any of the charges. To fill the vacancy left by the resignation of F. C. Coats from the board of directors Leigh Quakenbush was appointed.

A letter of sympathy was drafted to be sent to Theo. Belanger now at Soboba Hot Springs recuperating from a recent attack of illness.

Cookman Lectures on Tiny Birds In State

Prof. Alfred Cookman of 336 West Pioneer drive, lectured yesterday at the Southwest museum on "Tiniest Birds of California." More than 100 boys and girls were present.

'Original' Realtor Is Going to School Again to Brush Up

C. N. Chadbourn of Minneapolis, the "original" realtor, known to members of the National Association of Real Estate boards as the man who a half dozen years ago coined the term held by the association to designate the members of its constituent boards, has enrolled himself as "going to school" again. He has joined the student membership of the American Real Estate institute.

And the institute doesn't mind admitting that it is proud of the new enrollment.

The institute, established at headquarters of the National association in Chicago, is conducting a national home study course in real estate practice.

HOMECRAFTS PLAN EARLY TYPE HOME

Rooms of Spanish Design House Surround Patio In Unique Manner

Appearing elsewhere in this issue is a sketch and description by the Homecrafts Corporation of a house being built by it, at 1123 North Rossmoyne avenue, which portrays one of the most complete, unique and attractive Spanish designs yet to be offered by this firm.

It is of the typical early type, with rooms completely surrounding a center patio. Arrangement, appointment, fixtures and finish, including barbecue fireplace, stone fountain and fish pond in the patio, combine to define this home a worthy milestone in this company's extensive operations in building distinctive houses in the Rossmoyne section, and will be a monumental substantiation of their claims that Glendale is the ideal city of fine homes.

Engineering department of the Homecrafts Corporation is preparing plans for other sites in this section, and construction will go on steadily. The houses already constructed or under way have brought widespread favorable comment, and contribute greatly to the progress of the city.

CHILDREN FROLIC AT ANNUAL PARTY

Hallo-Kiwanis Festival Is Attended by More Than 4000 Youngsters

Greets You," emblazoned upon a huge background from one end of the field. Thunderous applause greeted this display as Roman candles lighted up the landscape and great sky-rockets burst in the heavens overhead.

For nearly an hour the fireworks lasted with many novel features, culminating with the shooting a great sky-rocket which, when it had burst hundreds of feet above the field, displayed attached to a great ball of glowing light, the Stars and Stripes fluttering in the upper atmosphere.

Big Bonfire

Following the fireworks, the huge forty-foot bonfire was lighted and as it burned the great Kleigs and floodlights were again wheeled into place and hundreds of feet more of film were taken, while the prizes were distributed to the lucky contestants and the Kiwanians encircled about the huge blaze in serpentine fashion.

Filming before the Kleigs of the officers of the Kiwanis club and the members of different committees handling the Hallowe'en festival took place at the close of the program. The moving pictures will be shown by Pathe and Animated Weekly exchanges in current news reel features.

Wales Reaches Dear Ol' England, Saying 'I'm Glad I'm Home'

SOUTHAMPTON, England, Nov. 1.—"I have had a wonderful holiday, but am glad to reach home," said the Prince of Wales when he got back to England, after visiting the United States and Canada.

The prince stood up on the bridge of the liner Olympic smoking a huge pipe as the vessel drew into her berth. His face reflected his pleasure at getting home, as he looked over the familiar sights in the harbor. He was especially interested in watching the Olympic and other ships being warped into port.

JUVENILE PRANKS KEEP POLICE BUSY

Over-Ripe Fruit Thrown as Ammunition on Eve of All Saints

Juvenile Hallowe'en pranks last night kept the police busy and ran the gamut from pie stealing to throwing juicy tomatoes and overripe oranges at occupants of passing cars. Numerous calls from residents that there were "burglars in the house" failed to land any desperate criminals in the local jail nor was anything of value taken, excepting edibles.

Christian Choate of Eagle Rock, was brought to police headquarters and given a lecture, after being caught hot-handed hurling tomatoes and other vegetables at passers-by.

Young miscreants turned on the sprinkler system at the Acacia school but escaped with echoes of ribald laughter before the police could be summoned. Rocks were thrown at cars passing on Colorado boulevard between Brand boulevard and Glendale avenue, but no one was hurt.

Some More Mischief

The street at Pacific avenue and Glenwood road was blocked and motorists bombarded with squashy oranges. Windows were broken on West Lexington drive. A batch of pies was stolen from a tempting window-ledge at 411 West Pioneer drive. Lumber at Jackson and Stocker streets was molested. Numerous cars were "stolen" and later found by their owners in unlikely places.

In short, the "young idea" of Glendale behaved last night in quite the traditional manner. What might have happened had not the colorful Hallow-Kiwanis parade skimmed the cream from their surplus energies, is difficult to conceive. Today, though Glendale looks a little shabby in spots it is still much the same as usual, and numerous young gentlemen who marauded late last night were still sleeping this morning when their mothers sent out the first call for breakfast.

WOMEN HOLD LUNCHEON ON LAWN

Garden Party of Law Club Big Success; Pledge To 'Y' Raised

With ideal weather prevailing members and guests of the Women's Parliamentary Law club enjoyed a luncheon yesterday in the garden of the H. H. Harris home, 1144 North Brand boulevard, and raised the pledge of $50 made by the club to the Y. M. C. A. building fund. An after-luncheon program, presided over by Mrs. Harry Greenwalt, club president, was a feature of the outing.

Mr. and Mrs. Harris proved most cordial hosts and with the assistance of Mrs. Claude G. Putnam, chairman of hospitality, and Mrs. R. N. Stryker, chairman of finance for the club, arranged one of the most successful affairs the club has enjoyed.

Tables, bright with Hallowe'en colors, favors and autumn flowers, were placed on the lawn in the garden. Around these the company of sixty was seated.

Afternoon Program

Mrs. Greenwalt, who entertained the club with clever limericks at the luncheon in June, recited new verses yesterday in introduction of club members and guests. There were responses by Mesdames Arthur Franklin, Harris, Nichols, Stryker, O. H. Spradling, John Robert White, Jr. Mrs. Sidney Dell was one of the special guests and as registrar of voters, told of her work and urged the women to vote. Mr. Harris, an attorney, was introduced and spoke of the coming election.

In the afternoon Mrs. P. H. Houston of Los Angeles, Granddaughter of the noted parliamentarian, the late General Henry M. Robert, was a special guest. With others she enjoyed a program by Gladys White, Pearl Adair Kribs, Gretna Cordary, Jaunita Claycomb, Miss Claycomb and Mrs. A. B. Bonham, pupils of Mrs. Virginia Freeman; readings by Mrs. Cleghorn of the Emerson School of Self-Expression and piano numbers by Mrs. Eva Ghrist. Mrs. Roberta T. Young was accompanist.

Los Angeles Man Shot At Hallowe'en Party

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 1.—A gay hallowe'en party ended here today in the death of Peter A. Zarilla, 40, who was shot and killed, police say, by Walter S. Daniel, 25, Los Angeles county employe. Daniel told the authorities he killed Zarilla, a merchant, because he tried to force his way into a party at Daniel's home.

MISS KELLER PUPILS TO AID VETS

Dancing Teacher to Go With Legion Post Members to Sawtelle Benefit

Pupils of the Pearl Keller School of Dramatic Art and Dancing will accompany the members of Glendale Post No. 127, American Legion, to the government hospital at Sawtelle on Thursday night and present a program for the disabled veterans there, it was announced at the meeting of the post last night at the legion hall, 610 East Broadway.

Miss Keller is donating the services of the pupils, has arranged the program and will supervise the presentation. Members of the post will assemble at the legion headquarters at 6:30 o'clock Thursday night. Members of the post's auxiliary also will go.

Urged to Vote

Commander Joseph A. Wilson urged the members of the post to vote at the general election next Tuesday, and explained the necessity of every member's voting. He asked the members to vote "no" on amendment No. 5, since the amendment carries a "joker" which would kill all prevailing legislation for veterans' aid.

K. F. Butler, director of the post's bugle and drum corps, announced practice meetings were held on Monday, Wednesday and Thursday nights. S. K. French, of Los Angeles, notted Scottish bass drummer, will assist the local corps in the parade Armistice Day.

Dues Payable Now

Adjutant E. E. McWain announced 1925 dues of $6 are payable now. He explained that $1 of the amount collected was an assessment for the Los Angeles County Council Bulletin, the official publication of legionnaires in Los Angeles county. Various amendments which will be voted upon at the general election Tuesday were explained by Eugene J. Wix.

It was announced also that Chief of Police John D. Fraser, who is a member of the post, will be the grand marshal for the Armistice day parade, assisted by J. W. Everington and Col. Hanigan, now an officer of the United States army. A general order giving the line of march appears elsewhere in The Glendale Evening News.

In six months of this year Canadians bought 153,000 pocketbooks and purses made in the United States.

Ingenue

MARY ISABELLE ALPAUGH, ingenue with the Dobinson Players, is pleasing large audiences by her work in "Turn to the Right" this week.

Mary Isabelle Alpaugh, the ingenue of the Dobinson Players, who this week is appearing at the club playhouse as Elsie Tillinger in "Turn to the Right," is well known as an actress whose work is full of charm and sincerity. Miss Alpaugh is in her early twenties, and is always striving to develop the character of her interpretation in the most finished manner. She is making herself beloved for her excellent portrayals.

William Harvey Stephens, who is so natural in his characterization of Joe Bascom that a Los Angeles critic proclaimed him a coming matinee idol, is doing clever work and is receiving recognition for his masterful handling of this role.

Georgie Woodthorpe needs no introduction, and her interpretation of Mother Bascom is one that is so perfect that there is nothing left to be said except that her audience is held spellbound by her wonderful performance.

BONDS ON SCHOOL UNPAID, IS CLAIM

Dr. William C. Mabry Gives His Stand on Project Before People

Editor The Evening News—There are a few points about civic affairs and the proposed civic center which seem important and have not been mentioned so far as I am informed.

1. The presence of a park or civic center in a business district invariably acts as a block to the expansion and development of that district—instance Pershing Square, not a single important commercial enterprise on any of its four streets or closer than a block in any direction. Instance also the Sanitarium block which killed our own East Broadway, an influence still felt. Practically every large city has built or is developing civic centers away from business; Cleveland, San Francisco, Salt Lake. City hall business has no competition and therefore a central location neither is needed nor even desirable.

School Is Needed

2. The school board will require the Harvard site both for day and night schools now maintained for several years and as our city grows will need urgently a site for the rapidly increasing special teaching and night schools required by law and which in all cities require a central location Any responsible local educator of necessity must confirm this statement. Public memory is short, but many will recall that a few years ago our high school board sold, or rather gave away, two and a half acroes at Broadway and Brand boulevard for about $12,000, over the protests of men of vision. Is school board history to repeat itself?

A different policy was followed by Los Angeles. Commercial street, bought for a song, was held until a few thousands grew to over a million. There can be no doubt in the mind of any trained business man that if the present school board holds the Harvard site, conscientiously guarding the rights of the entire union district until it has no immediate use for the whole block, Maryland street could be reopened removing the present checkmate to business extension in that direction, five street frontages made available, an adequate reservation made for special schools mentioned above and still sell enough business frontage to net the district double the sales price advocated in the present scheme.

Quotes Figures

3. It is proposed to issue bonds for $650,000 to purchase the Harvard site. The "official appraiser" inventories the buildings at $51,000 and estimates the cost of temporary makeshift "improvements" for mediocre service at $150,000, a sum sufficient to provide a modern structure on city owned property ample and suited to the city's requirements for many years. This same sum of wasted tax and bond money would build two much needed ten-room grammar schools providing for nearly a thousand pupils.

Should the Junior High school or combined school boards idea materialize—with all advantages taken of tax money saved and the increased land values and at no additional expense whatever the present plant could be used to great advantage. Even then doubtless we will need much additional space and still as now be housing half time pupils in "hot-and-cold bungalows" and rented church properties. Without the Harvard school, out-doors schools with boxes and boards for seats and desks well may be added to the possibilities as occurred in the Atwater tract only a short time ago when Glendale refused to care for the pupils of that district.

Bonds on School

4. It is no great stretch for an imagination which envisions many fathers also living out-doors if the rapid increase in taxes and the mania for mortgaging the future with bonds and more bonds, each hundred dollars of which eventually costs two hundred and fifty more, is not checked.

Normally in a rapid growing community actual necessities are obtainable only by great sacrifices but these are made willingly and cheerfully. Wasteful non-essentials and luxuries make these efforts painful burdens. We are still paying for bonds on the Harvard site. Why pay for a second set of bonds on the same property and for a third set to provide new buildings to house the pupils at present well provided for?

It is said we are taking money out of one pocket and putting it back into another pocket. So we are—but not in the way indicated. As a matter of cold fact eventually and actually we are taking or proposing to take out $750 and put back $100 into our own pockets and the $650 into other pockets which are tax free. Do not overlook the calculated injustice to the balance of the union district outside Glendale.

Offers Suggestions

5. It seems reasonable to believe, in the abstract, that capable, honest administration of school and civic affairs, holding taxes within reasonable limits, also the costs of public improvements such as paving, honest paving, sewers, light and water, and using excess tax funds for needed sanitary, police and fire protection would make life more cheerful for our citizens and enable them to provide more liberally for their children than would a completed idealistic civic center, to say uothing of an immature plan of doubtful expediency and uncertain possibilities conceived in a period of rapidly changing conditions.

Riding a "hobby" is pleasant for some, becomes tiresome to some others, does not get one anywhere but may cause a hard fall.

In conclusion, I do not claim my views or the matters which to me seem important are infallible or vital, but I offer them sincerely for the welfare of Glendale.

CLUB WOMEN HEAR GOOD REPORTS

Mrs. Dow Back From Visit East Bringing Greetings From President

Greetings from Mrs. John G. Sherman, president of the General Federation of Women's clubs, were brought to Glendale women by Mrs. Lillian Dow of 650 North Kenwood street, who arrived home last night from a three months' trip east, where she met Mrs. Sherman in the General Federation headquarters in Washington, D. C.

Mrs. Dow, one of Glendale's prominent residents and active in club affairs as a director of the Tuesday Afternoon Club, was enthusiastic about her visit to Washington headquarters. Another interesting experience of her trip she described as a session of the convention of the Federation of Maine at Portland.

Many Places Visited

While in the east, Mrs. Dow visited in Maine, her old home in Boston, Mass., and in New Hampshire, Vermont, Connecticut and other eastern states.

During her visit in Washington she said Mrs. Sherman gave her a cordial welcome as a California club woman and stated that eastern club women were delighted with the hospitality extended by California club women during the recent biennial in Los Angeles.

En route home Mrs. Dow visited in Chicago. When her train reached Omaha, she met Mrs. John G. Huntley of Glendale, who was also on her way home from an eastern visit.

WAR SECRETS OUT IN OIL HEARING

Testimony Shows Contract For Naval Fuel Covered To Conceal Plans

LOS ANGELES, Noc. 1—Further testimony to show that the details of the E. L. Doheny contract for the Pearl Harbor naval fuel oil storage project, were kept secret at the dictation of the navy department to prevent the revelation of the navy's war defense plans, and not because Ex-Secretary of the Interior A. B. Fall wanted to conceal the Doheny deal, featured the federal court trial today in the government's oil contract and lease cancellation suit.

Letter Plays Part

Specific instructions from the navy department to withhold from the public the oil storage project plans, were read into the court record from navy department correspondence, introduced as evidence by Frank J. Hogan, chief defense counsel.

A letter from Theodore Roosevelt, acting secretary of the navy at the time, to Fall, telling of the navy department's anxiety to keep the Pearl Harbor plans confidential, was the outstanding communication in the correspondence read by Hogan to prove the defense contention that the secrecy which surrounded the Doheny contract was not of Fall's making.

DYNAMITERS REMAIN IN LEAD; DEFEAT ALHAMBRA

Moors Eliminated, 25 to 7, in Spirited Game at Broadway Field; Visitors Only Team to Cross Glendale Goal So Far

By ROSS M. RUSSELL, Jr.
Of The Evening News Staff.

To Alhambra goes the honor of being the only heavyweight team in the Central league to cross the Glendale goal line so far this season. The Moors turned the trick in the last minute of play yesterday at Broadway field before 5000 persons, on a twenty-yard pass, Rhoades to Rouche, that crossed the last chalk line and was gathered in by Rouche.

The Dynamiters got a strangle hold on the Central league pennant by walking over the Alhambra team, 25 to 7, giving the locals three victories and no defeats to date.

The Dynamjters used their perfected "end-over" play for end runs and made a total of seventy-five yards in this manner. The Moors were helpless during the first half and most of the third quarter, but opened up in the last fifteen minutes of play and kept the oval on Glendale territory most of the time.

Score Early

After the kickoff Droopy Phillips carried the ball twenty yards. Bud Elliott made eighteen on an end over play and Booker made ten more. With the ball in the center of the field Booker kicked to Irving Enz, who dropped the ball. Dick Ryan picked it up and ran and rolled to the three yard mark before he was stopped. Booker went over on an off tackle play on the second attempt. Bud's place kick was blocked.

The Moors, after the kickoff, punted to Bud. Bud fumbled, but Les Lavelle recovered the ball on the Alhambra forty-yard line. Bud Elliott tried a place kick, which was low. Alhambra was soon forced to kick to Booker in the middle of the field. Booker made five yards on a cut-in tackle play and Ryan made nine more. Booker tore through the line for five more paces. Ryan and Booker made ten on line bucks. Bud made five, and the quarter ended with the pigskin on the Moors' ten-yard line.

Second Quarter

Bud went through the line for five yards. Booker contributed four more. Booker made one foot. This left the Dynamiters two downs to make as many feet. On the next play Phillips went across on a center rush.

The home boys marched down the field and put across another score before the half ended. and scored their last touchdown in the third quarter, when Ryan went over on a sweeping run around left end. Booker took the ball and put it over the bar with a perfect drop-kick.

Start Aerial Game

The Moors opened up with their aerial game in the second half. They made their first yards on a pass and a line buck. They made yards for the second time just as the third quarter ended.

The luckiest break of the game came to the visitors at the beginning of the final quarter, when Lundie knocked down a pass into an Alhambra player's hands. This brought the Moors within striking distance of the Glendale goal. A pass which appeared to be going straight into Roche's hands was knocked down by Ryan. The Dynamiters finally got the ball on downs, but Lundie's kick went high and netted only twenty yards.

The Moors saved themselves from a shutout during the last minute of play when Rhoades threw the ball into the waiting arms of Joujom Rouche, who was parked beyond the Glendale goal line. Rhoades kicked goal as the final whistle sounded.

LAWRENCE PERRY SAYS

Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1924

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—This is the first season in the past four years in the western conference that has not been upset by professionalism. The Carlinville-Taylorville incident of 1921 that disrupted the Illinois team of 1922 caused a great deal of excitement and it was freely charged in the west—and in the east—that the big ten rules against professionalism could not be enforced.

Now Major Griffith, commissioner of western conference athletics, says they have been enforced and this season for the first time there is not a murmur of any kind about players of shady amateur standing.

After setting out the reasons that led to his appointment by the physical directors of the conference and his various duties by way of investigation, promoting the spirit of pure sportsmanship and the cultivation of friendliness among members of the big ten, Major Griffith says in a report to the writer:

"A great many people are suspicious of the administration of college athletics. These people, however, when they know a conference rule is being violated will not present the charges direct to the institution for fear of incurring the displeasure of partisans of that institution. Many of these persons, however, will report these cases to a neutral person with the understanding that they themselves will not be in any way involved.

"This officer receives hundreds of complaints that conference institutions are playing ineligible men or that some athlete has violated a conference rule, or, again, that some alumni body has been unduly active in recruiting athletes. Where these complaints are investigated it is found that the majority are unfounded. However, if they are found to be correct the institution involved disqualifies the athlete that has violated the rule."

With regard to commercialism, Major Griffith says that anyone who cares to audit the books of the various conference athletic associations, will easily find that in no way is money taken in for athletics shared with the players. As to the belief that many athletes are professional, i. e., they are paid by the universities for playing or have competed as professional athletes with some organization he makes this interesting statement:

"Conference directors in the past two years have disqualified some fifty men for violating the conference rule relative to playing with outside organizations for money under assumed names, or for playing where gate admissions are charged. As a result conference athletes have learned that whether they believe in this rule or not—and most of them do not believe in it—it can be enforced. As a result few athletes take the chance of playing with professional organizations in the summer or at any other time, so long as they are desirous of competing on conference teams.

"People used to say that this rule could not be enforced and until the athletic directors took it upon themselves to enforce it two years ago it was not rigidly enforced in this conference or in any other. Our directors, however, have shown that they can handle the situation if they wish to and I have no hesitation in saying there are very few conference athletes who are professional in any sense of the word."

Major Griffith condones the practice of enthusiastic alumni in persuading preparatory school athletes to enroll in their universities, but the directors of the conference have now agreed to ask alumni and others not to raise money for the purpose of giving it to athletes or loaning it to them for buying athletic scholarships. He believes that very little proselyting is now done by alumni and any evidence that it is done is investigated by the regular authorities.

CABBAGES SELL FOR CENT

Cabbages were so plentiful in England this year that they sold for a penny apiece.

JOHN B. FOSTER'S VIEWS

Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1924.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—The Boston Americans will not train in San Antonio next spring. The choice now appears to lie between Mobile and New Orleans.

It was the death of H. J. Benson of San Antonio, the man who had been most instrumental in getting major league teams to go to Texas to train, that resulted in the decision against Texas. That, and the fact that Boston hasn't quite as many Texans on her team as she had last season.

Julius Reinemann, who owns the New Orleans club, is somewhat piqued that the New York Yankees deserted his city to go to Florida. New York has been chafing for two or three years about going back to New Orleans, though Reinemann didn't know about it. There is too much attraction in New Orleans besides baseball, and while the Yanks prospered in the years they trained there, they never left that city without a declaration by the camp followers that they were not in the condition they should be.

Miller Huggins, the Yankee manager is enamoured of the Florida climate, which has been unusually good the last two years, and out of which two championship teams have emerged—the Giants and Washington.

Suggestions that the training season should be curtailed met with no favor in the camp of the Giants. Nor will they be likely to meet with much favor by some other clubs. It is Manager McGraw's theory that a team should be trained to the point where it can start the season at mid-season form.

If a team comes north to the chillier clime in anything but top condition, he believes it will have no condition at all after it has experienced a few days of storms and cold weather.

As he always steals marches he insists and is likely to keep on insisting that he have ample time to get his players in condition for a good start.

The abandonment of Texas by practically all the major league clubs will be complete in 1925 if the Boston Red Sox decline to return to San Antonio. This will give the Class A clubs plenty of training ground if they choose to go in. The Indianapolis team has decided to go back to Plant City, Fla., where they did so well in 1924. Milwaukee also may return to Florida. There is some talk that one of the American associati teams will go to Winter Haven, Fla., taking the place of the White Sox, who are moving to Shreveport.

RINGSIDE GOSSIP by FAIR PLAY

Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1924.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—It looks to be a cinch that Mickey Walker will go gunning for Harry Greb without any success whatever. The fight he put up against Jock Malone wouldn't move any promoter to offer a guarantee for the two.

But there is one thing that can be said about the Walker-Malone battle in Newark on Wednesday night, and that is the fans were not fooled. Had it not been for Jack Dempsey's presence there would have been a small crowd.

Anyway, ticket sales were languishing until Dempsey turned up in Jersey with his vaudeville act and announced his intention of saying a few how-de-dos from the ring.

Then the crowd turned out and there were about 10,000 of them in the big armory when the show started. The worst sort of conditions existed outside the enclosure when the mob was trying to get in. Newark ought to borrow some dope from the Jersey City authorities on handling fight crowds.

The temptation is to dwell at some length on the fights and shovings and jostlings that occurred in the milling crowd because there were 20 better shows going on around the armory than Walker and Malone put up inside.

Mickey was all at sea against the St. Paul man, undoubtedly the cleverest boy in the ring. He tied Walker all up and made him miss and stumble about like a beginner. Mickey let Malone's body pretty much alone, whether because he couldn't hit it or because he did not want to will never be known. The fact that the welter champion hit the heavier blows and had Malone on the ropes carefully pounding him on two or three occasions gave him the fight.

Walker is a fighter pure and simple and can punch hard with a sort of abbreviated swing, but Malone has met the hardest punchers in the welter and middleweight ranks for the past eight years and bears few marks of his engagements.

The fans went home mad and that is simply because they listened to the glowing reports of the press agents instead of looking at the facts.

WINTER LOOP WILL START TOMORROW

All Glendale to Celebrate Marty Krug Day; Sox to Play Gilmore Oil

OPENING GAMES
Gilmore vs. White Sox at Glendale
Jasper's Stars vs. Merchants at Hollywood
Pasadena vs. St. Louis Giants At Goodyear Park

The Southern California Winter league will get under way tomorrow afternoon when the games outlined above will be played. The main attraction will be the White Sox-Gilmore Oilers game at the ball plant on San Fernando road, for, in addition to being assured of a fast game, fans will pay tribute to Marty Krug, pilot of the Los Angeles Angels, and a Glendale man, who will play second base for the local team.

Frank Kerwin, owner of the White Sox, has officially proclaimed tomorrow as "Marty Krug Day" at the local park, and more than 5,000 persons are expected to be on hand for the opening fracas. Gilmore will bring a large bunch of rooters with them.

Prominent stars of baseballdom will be in the lineup of the two teams. Boss Kerwin announced today that he had signed Bert Whaling, who caught for Boston Red Sox the year that club won the world title, to play with Glendale. Ken Penner, pitching ace of Vernon, will be on the mound for the home team.

Schupp to Hurl

Opposing Penner will be "Ferdie" Schupp, former New York Giant hurler. "Tubb" Spencer of the Angels will work behind the log for the visitors. Others in the lineup will be Coleman, Carlisle, Chellgard, Ennis, Davis, McKnight, Rader and Beaumiller.

Supporting Penner and Whaling will be Ping Bodie, famous big leaguer, Manager Ray French, sensational shortstop of three leagues, "Chicken" Hawks, Emerson, Bill Shields, Charley Dorman, Dick Bonelly, of the Kansas City Blues, Tellez, Donny Murphy of the Vernon Tigers, and others.

In the other games tomorrow, Hollywood will have Les Cook, of the Salt Lake Bees, catching for them, and "Buck" Ramsey, of the Angels, on the mound. Jasper has a strong aggregation of colored baseball stars he will send against the movieland merchants tomorrow.

Cobb and his St. Louis Colored Giants will meet the Pasadena Merchants at Goodyear park, Sixty-fourth and Central avenue, Los Angeles. A record crowd is expected to witness the opener.

BOXING NOTES

At San Francisco—Despite his runaway tactics, Nick Newman won the decision over Jack Reeves in four rounds; Sammy Olson and Fred Sullivan drew, while Freddie Welch stopped Billy Smith in the third.

At New York—Jimmy Goodrich, Buffalo lightweight, defeated Dan Cooney, Trenton, ten rounds.

At Los Angeles—Although clumsy and crude, Pat Lester, San Francisco heavyweight, had no difficulty winning last night from Floyd Johnson, Oakland heavy, in four rounds.

GLENDALE WOMAN TELLS OF TRIP EAST

Mrs. Huntley Returns After Visit of Seven Weeks In New York

Mrs. John G. Huntley of 308 North Central avenue, returned Thursday night from New York where she was called by the death of her father, Russell T. Gardiner. Mrs. Huntley was absent seven weeks and said she intended to bring her mother to Glendale but Mrs. Gardiner's health would not permit such a long trip.

Mrs. Huntley was a delegate to the National Red Cross convention held in Washington, D. C., but was unable to attend. She was appointed on the credentials committee of the National Red Cross. During her stay in New York she attended political meetings and met Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., running for governor of New York.

A pleasant surprise awaited Mrs. Huntley when she boarded the Los Angeles Limited at Chicago, and met Mrs. Lillian Dow, also of Glendale, who had been visiting in the east. Mrs. Huntley, an enthusiastic booster for Glendale, said she was glad to get back to Glendale.

Mrs. W. E. Both gave interesting accounts of the Republican cause. A special feature of the afternoon was a piano recital by Mrs. H. R. Boyer, in an original medley of American airs.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS

One Half Slice of Bread Fatal

Dear Doctor: I am a business woman, 45 years old, possessed of the most wonderful appetite you ever heard of. I can get up every morning in the week hungry as a bear and eat everything and anything in sight, and never seem to overeat, never have least sign of indigestion and am the happy possessor of splendid health. But—I am only five feet, two inches tall and I weight 160 (by your rule, I should weigh 122), so I am beginning to look top heavy.

"I have started on your wonderful regime many times, but would get so hungry that I just had to break away. I am now firmly resolved to lose at least 25 pounds. F. D."

It is refreshing to get an honest confession. Most of us who have to fight overweight have the same kind of all inclusive appetites, Mrs. D. It is primarily an indication of good health and it is nothing to be ashamed of, rather it is something to be grateful for. However, when it gets to the abnormal stage and we eat more than we need, then we've got to blush a little for it. Overeating and the liking for rich foods is a habit. Ths we can control.

Shrink Your Stomach

The best way to start on the control is to shrink your stomach. Go on the three day liquid diet, 600 to 800 calories a day, taking skim milk or buttermilk, 80 calories to the glass, fruit juice, 100 calories to the glass. Or if you prefer, you can take part of your calories in dates. They furnish iron. Take your dates (100 calories)—with a glass of buttermilk (80 calories) (lovely combination)—say, four times a day. (Of course, for this three day diet, you don't have to be so particular about getting iron. It is when you are dieting for long periods of time that you have to be so careful you get iron and all the other elements your system needs.)

Send for the article, it won't be any easier tomorrow, and don't forget to enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request.

About your overeating—perhaps you do not apparently overeat, but do you know you have to eat but one-half slice of bread and butter three times a day, in excess of your needs, to gain 27 pounds in one year?

Absolutely!

You reckon it this way: one-half slice of bread and one-half pat of butter 3 times a day is 300 Cs. 365x300 C. equals 109,500 C. 109,500 divided by 4,000 is 27. (Divide by 4,000 because one pound of fat is approximately 4,000 Cs.)

My Dear Followers:—When sending for material which we offer you please remember to enclose a stamped envelope bearing your full name and address. The pamphlet on reducing and gaining is the only one for which you must enclose four cents in stamps extra. Address your letters to me in care of this paper. Make them as brief as possible, not over 200 words, and type or write them legibly with ink. Please sign your name as evidence of good faith—we will not use it in any way. Remember it is impossible for me to diagnose for you or to answer you personally. I appreciate very much the beautiful letters you send me and regret it is impossible to give you individual advice. The questions you ask will be answered in the column as soon as possible; if they are of general interest. Don't forget the s. a. s. e. if you expect me to send you the information I have offered.

Chats On Beauty

By EDNA KENT FORBES

HYPERTRICHOSIS

Sounds alarming, doesn't it? But it's nothing more than too much hair—hair, that is, where it isn't wanted: on the chin, over the upper lip from moles or warts. It isn't hard to remedy.

Hairy moles or warts must be treated by a doctor. They are easily removed but don't try removing them yourself; there is too much danger, some say, even of cancer, from careless treatment of these blemishes. The least harm you could do yourself would be to scar the skin. For tiny moles or warts, treat yourself under your doctor's direction.

If the superfluous hairs are very numerous and annoying, and if you have the money, and the time and want them out forever, go to a good electric needle specialist and have the multiple needle process used on you. If properly done, it leaves no scar and in spite of all the methods recently patented it is, in my opinion, the only really permanent way to get rid of hair. Even so, some hairs come back, and it takes several treatments to kill off a thick growth.

If you can't do this, pull them yourself with tweezers, first dabbing the skin with peroxide After you have finished, dab the skin again with peroxide. This not only makes the process antiseptic, it discourages new hairs from growing and bleaches them if they do come in. It bleaches the light fuzz, too, which is often as annoying as the long hairs. Then, rub the skin occasionally with a mixture of equal parts peroxide and ammonia, a sure bleach. This discourages and in many cases, entirely kills superfluous hair. Some advise rubbing the skin with a pumice stone wet with peroxide. This is better for the arms than the face, it is rather irritating to the skin.

Jean Z.—Consult the doctor about condition causing veins in hands to swell up when you lower hands. This is a natural thing for some elderly people, but it should not be so with a young, healthy person.

Damzel—At 144 pounds with height of five feet, eight inches, at 20 years of age, you are about ten pounds overweight. You can easily lose this by playing tennis and taking the walks you do each day.

This Is Not an Alarming Trouble

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of the "Beauty Chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. The Wrath To Come

By E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM, Copyright 1924

CHAPTER XI

"Mine is simply the obvious point of view," Grant explained. "You are the private secretary of the Prime Minister of your country, who is also President of the Pact of Nations. I do not think that I would become too intimate or be seen too much in public with the wife of a German statesman of Von Diss' known proclivities."

Lymane lit a cigarette with trembling fingers.

"You're out of your mind, Slattery," he declared.

"Perhaps," was the quiet rejoinder. "The advice I have offered you is for your own good."

"The usual cant," the young man sneered. "Why you might have been born thirty years ago. What's the difference between Germany and the other nations? What's the Pact done, I should like to know, if it hasn't brought them all into a group? You seem to be harking back to the primeval days when German spies and adventurous princesses were the stock in trade of the sensational novelist."

"Such people may still exist," Grant persisted.

"Rubbish! What is there to spy about? They're all making a fuss over at Nice, but I've come to the conclusion that it doesn't amount to anything. You're a bit of an alarmist, I know, Slattery, but I'm not. In any case, to take exception to my friendship with the Princess simply because you yourself have had a misunderstanding with her is neither more nor less than ridiculous."

Grant looked at his companion curiously.

"I am sorry you take it like that," he said. "I will admit that I hold a somewhat gloomy view of the international situation just now, but you are wrong when you suggest that I have had any sort of a misunderstanding with the Princess."

"At any rate, Von Diss is not a particular friend of yours, is he?" the yuong man asked meaningly.

Grant rose to his feet.

"Look here, Lymane," he protested, "there are limits to the disagreeable things you may say to me. I think—"

It was one of those happenings which Grant could never explain, even to himself. He rose to his feet simply with the intention of leaving his companion for a moment or two. As he did so, unseen to him, the girl at the next table rose also. She held up her arms quite naturally, without saying a word, without even looking directly towards him. No word of invitation passed from either one to the other. When, afterwards, Grant asked himself how that dance had come about, he could only surmise that the girl had willed it.

"I suppose," Grant remarked, after their first turn of the room, "that I must be psychic."

"Why?" the girl asked.

"Because, although you have never addressed a word to me, not even since we commenced to dance, I believe that you have something to say."

"It is not you who are psychic," she replied. "It was I who conveyed that impression to you. We will stop now. Come this way, please."

She led the way to two chairs set in a retired corner of the Bar, which was just then almost deserted.

"That was a very short dance," he complained.

"You dance very well," she answered, "but to talk is sometimes more important."

He looked at her with quickening curiosity. In her strange, quiet way she was, without a doubt attractive, but in an absolutely unanalysable manner. Not only was she without ornaments, but her dress itself was made in the plainest possible fashion. There was no color upon her cheeks or carmine upon her lips. She seemed even to have disdained the powder puff.

"What will you have?" he asked, as a waiter drew near. "Some champagne?"

"Thank you," she replied. "I never drink wine. I will have some tea and some cigarettes."

"Aren't you a little unusual for a place like this?" he asked.

"Very," she admitted. "At first they did not wish to take me. Now they know better. I can bring them customers when I choose."

"You speak very good English," he said, "but you are not English, are you?"

"My mother," she told him, "was Japanese. My father was a Levantine. I was born in Alexandria. There are only two things I can do in the world—dance and speak many languages. But no, there is a third. I can hate."

"Well, I hope you won't hate me?" he remarked, smiling.

She studied him for a moment and it seemed to him that it was the first time that their eyes had met.

"No," she assured him. "I shall never hate you, nor shall I ever love you. Perhaps that is as well or the young lady at your table would be jealous."

"There is no one at my table who is particularly interested in me," he declared.

"That is not true," she replied. "Lady Susan Yeovil is very much interested in you."

He was half amused, half inclined to be irritated at what seemed presumption.

DOBINSON PLAYERS

Each day brings its own experiences to almost everyone, but one which seemed amusing occurred at the club playhouse when a Glendale man said to Mrs. Dobinson, with a sincere ring in his tone:

"The men of Glendale think that the show of the Dobinson Players is for the women, and I didn't come myself, thinking this was the truth, as I didn't want to go to a women's clubhouse for my entertainment. But, after hearing so many people tell of the fine show, I came, partly against my will, and discovered it was such a fine performance that I will be a booster for the company, as it is high-class entertainment, and something that this city is fortunate to have escured."

Mrs. Dobinson answered with: "The Dobinson Players is a professional company, with aspirations and ideals. Their intention is nothing high-brow, but a line of endeavor along that strata that gives old and young of average intelligence a happy hour or two in a life full of perplexities."

"Turn to the Right" is being given at the club playhouse tonight by the Dobinson Players.

THE GLENDALE

Buck Jones in "Against All Odds" concludes today at the Glendale theatre. Sunday to Thursday, inclusive, the feature is "Barbara Frietchie."

THE T. D. & L.

Nazimova in "Madonna of the Streets" concludes today at the T. D. & L. theatre. Sunday, Monday and Tuesday the feature is Zane Grey's "The Border Legion."

THE GATEWAY

In preparation for the production of "Yolanda," her latest Cosmopolitan picture, to be the attraction at the Gateway theatre for three days, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, Marion Davies made two trips abroad and spent several months in research to acquaint herself with the costumes worn by women in that period.

Persons who never have done it would expect to find a bit of adventure in shopping for costumes to be worn in a moving picture. And in Miss Davies' judgment they would not be disappointed. Many elements enter into such an adventure. There must be some tedium to furnish proper contrast for the thrills. Then, of course, at the end there are the bills.

In selecting the gowns Miss Davies wears in "Yolanda," none of the elements named was lacking. The most lavish and romantic costume of all, the betrothal gown, for the old Gothic setting of centuries gone by, presented no small problem. In living the story of "Yolanda," as Miss Davies always lives her roles, she formed a definite idea about this gown. Of course, the costume could not be found in a modern shop. So how to make it? Where to find its design, each detail realized in satin and jewels and spun gold? The answer: Days and days spent in the public library, diligently studying books relative to the dress of the period.

MURPHY'S COMEDIANS

"The Lonesome Trail" concludes tonight at the tent theatre of Murphy Comedians No. 2, San Fernando boulevard at Cedar street, Burbank. Starting Sunday, "Peg o' My Heart" goes on for a week, announces J. W. Davis, manager.

"Peg o' My Heart" will undoubtedly tax the seating capacity of the tent to the limit and Manager Davis urges patrons to come as soon as 7:15 o'clock as possible, in order to be sure of getting seats. The show starts at 8:15.

The tent is comfortably heated and there is ample space outside for parking cars. Notwithstanding the season of the year, Murphy Comedians No. 2 are playing to large audiences every night and it is expected that a record crowd will visit the tent tonight to see the last performance of "The Lonesome Trail," with Vin Moore and Barbara Gurney in the leading roles.

Uncle Wiggily

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE CRYING PIG

Uncle Wiggily one day was hopping past the pen house where Mrs. Twistytail, the lady pig, lived. From the house came a loud sound of crying.

"Dear me!" said Uncle Wiggily to himself. "I hope nothing has happened to Mrs. Twistytail! I hope the bad Wolf isn't nibbling her ears!"

The rabbit gentleman twinkled his pink nose and didn't know what to do—like the old lady who lived in a shoe. But at last, when the crying sounded louder, he heard Mrs. Twistytail say:

"Now, Squeakie Squealer, if you don't stop shedding tears I'll send for Uncle Wiggily and he'll call you a cry baby pig!"

"I don't care—boo hoo—I don't care. Send for Uncle Wiggily if you wa—wa—want t—t—t—to!" sobbed Squeakie. "I'm going to cry a whole lot!"

With that the bunny hopped into the house, saying:

"Here's Uncle Wiggily now—what's the matter?"

"Oh, Squeakie Squealer is such a cry baby!" laughed Mrs. Twistytail. "He is crying for nothing at all—he cries if you look at him. Just now he is crying because I won't let him eat any more acorns, and he has already eaten as many as are good for him."

"Boo hoo! Boo hoo! Boo hoo!" wailed Squeakie.

"Shame on you! Uncle Wiggily sees you cry!" said the lady pig.

II—now—I d—d—d—don't c—c—c—c—care!" cried Squeakie.

"Oh, dear, what shall I do to stop him from being a cry baby?" sighed his mother.

"Leave him to me," whispered Uncle Wiggily. "You go out to the movies and I'll cure Squeakie of being a cry baby pig."

So while her little boy pig kept on dribbling tears all over the floor, Mrs. Twistytail went to the moving pictures. Then Uncle Wiggily said, very kindly:

"Now don't cry any more, Squeakie!"

But the little pig cried harder than ever. More tears splashed out of his eyes.

"Oh, we mustn't let all these tears go to waste," laughed the bunny. "I'll catch them in a pail and save them." So he held a tin pail under Squeakie's face and the tears dropped into the pail. Uncle Wiggily thought Squeakie would be ashamed, and would stop crying, when he saw his tears spilling into the pail. But no, Squeakie sobbed more than before. Oh, such a lot of salty tears fell—the pail was nearly filled.

And then, all of a sudden, into the pen house jumped the Woozie Wolf. He sniffed and he sniffed and he howled:

"I smell ears to nibble—Uncle Wiggily's ears and a little pig's ears! I'm going to nibble ears!"

"No, Mr. Wolf!" cried Uncle Wiggily. "Before you can eat you must have your face washed. I'll wash your face for you!"

With that Uncle Wiggily took the pail of salty tears Squeakie Squealer had cried, and the bunny threw the salty tears right in the face of the Wolf. The salt got in the bad chap's eyes and made them burn and smart.

"Wow! Woozie!" howled the wolf. "Oh, what happened?"

"Squeakie cried a lot of tears for you—that's all," answered Uncle Wiggily. And with that the Wolf made such a funny face, and turned such a funny somersault, as he flopped out of the room, that Squeakie stopped crying and laughed.

"Ha! Ha! I thought that would cure you," chuckled Uncle Wiggily as he watched the Wolf running down the forest path wiping the pig's tears from his face. "Now you are no longer a cry baby, Squeakie."

And the little pig wasn't. He turned into a laugh baby, which is much more jolly. And if the rag man doesn't take the tail off the gold fish to make a sunbonnet for the rubber plant, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the spot cat.

French-Canadian Holds Lands Deaded In 1629

QUEBEC, P. Q., Nov. 1.—Ismael Bedard, a French-Canadian farmer, of Charlesbourg, Quebec county, claims the distinction for his family of having lived longer in one place than any other family in North America. His forebears have held the same farm, without interruption in the succession, since 1629, according to the returns of a questionnaire sent out to parish priests in the province by the Arts, Sciences and Letters society here.

CITY PRINTING

ORDINANCE NO. 999

AN ORDINANCE REGULATING DANCE HALLS, DANCING CLUBS AND PUBLIC DANCES IN THE CITY OF GLENDALE.
BE IT ORDAINED BY THE COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF GLENDALE:
SECTION 1: It shall be unlawful for any person, association of persons or corporation to conduct or assist in conducting any public dance hall, dancing club, or any public dance in the City of Glendale unless under and by authority of a written permit from the City Council of said City; and it shall be unlawful for any person to participate in any such dance conducted without such permit.
Permits to conduct public dance halls, dancing clubs or public dances in said city may be issued by said City Council upon the written application of any person for himself, or on behalf of any association of persons or corporation. The Council must first satisfy itself that the conduct of such dance hall, dancing club or public dance will comport with the public welfare, and for this purpose may consider any facts or evidence bearing on the place where the proposed public dance hall, dancing club or public dance is to be located, the character, reputation and moral fitness of those who will be in charge of it, and any other facts or evidence tending to enlighten said Council in this respect.
Provided, that the Chief of Police may, without any action on the part of the City Council, grant a permit to any person, association or club to conduct not more than one (1) public or club dance in any one calendar year, after first satisfying himself as to the good character, reputation and moral fitness of those who will be in charge of such dance, and that such dance will be conducted in an orderly, legal and proper manner.
When the Council shall issue any permit under the terms of this section, the same may be revoked at any time thereafter by said Council, if said Council becomes satisfied that the conduct of such dance hall, dancing club or public dance does not or will not comport with the public welfare for any reason, or that the same has been conducted in an illegal, improper or disorderly manner. Said Council may make rules governing the public dance halls, public dances and dancing clubs, and may revoke or suspend permits issued for any public dance hall or dancing club where the proprietor or person, or persons, in charge thereof violates or permits any infraction of any such rules or any law of the State of California or any ordinance of the City of Glendale; provided, however, that no permit for a public dance hall or dancing club shall be revoked or suspended under the terms of this section unless a hearing and notice thereof be given the permittee; provided, however, that any such permit may be temporarily suspended by written order signed by the Chief of Police, a copy of which order shall be transmitted by the Chief of Police to the City Council at its next regular meeting. Such order shall be passed upon by the City Council at its regular meeting after such issuance and shall cease to be of any effect thereafter, but said City Council may at such meeting adopt a resolution continuing such temporary suspension in effect pending a regular hearing.
For the purpose of this ordinance, a public dance hall is defined to be a place where dancing is conducted, whether for profit or not for profit, and to which the public is admitted, either with or without charge, or at which the public is allowed to participate in the dancing, either with or without charge.
For the purpose of this ordinance, the term 'public dance' is defined to be a gathering of persons in or upon any premises where dancing is participated in, either as the main purpose for such gathering or as an incident to some other purpose, and to which premises the public is admitted.
For the purpose of this ordinance, a dancing club is defined to be any club or association of persons which conducts dances other than public dances for its members or bona fide guests more often than once per month, at which a fee is charged, either for admission to such dance or for dancing therein, or at which any collection or donation of money is made or received, or in which the amount of dues to be paid by each member is dependent upon attendance at such dances by such member; and a club dance is defined to be any dance held by a dancing club.
SECTION 2: It shall be unlawful for any minor person under eighteen (18) years of age to enter, be or dance in any public dance or club dance; it shall be unlawful for any parent or guardian of a minor under eighteen (18) years of age, or the proprietor or person in charge of any public dance or club dance, to permit any such minor person to enter, be or dance in any public or club dance; provided, that nothing herein shall be construed to prevent a minor person under the age of eighteen (18) years from being in a bona fide hotel, cafe or other place where meals are regularly served, and where a public dance is being held, in the event that such minor does not participate in the dancing therein; provided further, that nothing in this section shall apply to children under the age of five (5) years.
SECTION 3: The proprietor or permittee under a permit from the City Council, conducting a public dance hall or public dance or club dance, shall have the right to apply to such City Council for the appointment of a special police officer, or special police officers, to be paid by such proprietor, and to attend in such public dance hall, public dance or club dance during such times as dances are conducted therein, for the purpose of preserving order and seeing that no violation of any law of the State of California or any ordinance of the City of Glendale is permitted, but the presence of such special police officers at any such public dance hall, public dance or club dance shall not relieve the proprietor thereof, or any of his employees, from the responsibility for any violation of any law or any ordinance.
Any police officer of the City of Glendale on duty, whether in uniform or working in civilian clothes, shall be admitted without charge to any such public dance, club dance or public dance hall at any time for the purpose of inspecting the conduct of those participating in the dancing and to see that the provisions of this ordinance are being properly complied with.
SECTION 4: It shall be unlawful for any person to conduct or assist in conducting any public dance, public dance hall or club dance on Sunday, or between the hours of 1 o'clock a. m. and 6 o'clock a. m. on other days.
SECTION 5: All public dance halls or places where public or club dances are held must at all times when open for dancing therein be brightly lighted throughout, and the volume of illumination must not vary during the time such dance hall or public dance is open to the public or such club is open to its members or guests.
SECTION 6:—It shall be unlawful for any person to take any form of alcoholic liquor into any premises where a public dance or club dance is being held, and it shall be unlawful for any person in charge, or assisting in the conduct of any public dance hall or any public dance or club dance, to permit any person therein, and it shall be unlawful for any person to be or remain therein, who has any form of alcoholic liquor in his possession, or to permit any intoxicated, boisterous or disorderly person to enter, be or remain in, or to assist in any such public dance hall, public dance or club dance; and it shall be unlawful for any person in an intoxicated condition to enter or remain in any public dance hall, public dance or club dance, or for any person to conduct himself in a boisterous or disorderly manner in a public dance hall, public dance or club dance.
SECTION 7: It shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation conducting, maintaining or carying on a public dance hall, or having charge or control thereof, to employ or permit any female under the age of twenty-one (21) years to give instruction in dancing therein to persons of the opposite sex.
It shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation conducting, maintaining or carrying on a public dance hall or having charge or control thereof, to permit any instructor who is under the age of twenty-one (21) years to give instructions in dancing to persons of the opposite sex in any private room or booth in such public dance hall.
